Wands Features Key:

10 random scenery scenes packed with crazy interactive elements
15+ playable games
The SCREENPAINTER EXCLUSIVE: create custom scenes and save them to ANY virtual environment

The concept behind the VR Screensavers is simple: It's all about getting the latest immersive graphics even in real-time via head-tracking (WASD controller) when turning a screen on / off, decorating scenes, changing games' theme and so on. But it's more than that: 3D GUI elements and sprites behave in REAL-TIME according to your 3D mouse input. No more clicking around on a fancy and pretty picture when it is in a rendered 3D shape. This is just like the real thing!

Key Features:

- 10 scenery scenes, 15+ playable games
- All scenes are rendered using Adreline media's advanced Ardymis engine
- Customizable scenery (IMPORT/ EXPORT), light & sound
- Customizable internal scene and game library
- Playable games using either the stand-alone version or via 3rd-party multi-player/local gaming platform.
- The stand-alone version offers on-line online multiplayer (multi-player)

I am trying to scan two files from two different directories (because of security) and I am unable to do it. Here's the code I'm using Scanner l = new Scanner(new File("/file/path/dir/file.txt")); Scanner f = new Scanner(new File("/file/path/dir/file2.txt")); How can I merge these into one file? I want to combine the two strings. I tried the writer solution but it isn't working so I thought about a different solution which is coding an.xml file to merge. But I thought maybe there is a simpler solution. Thanks :) A: If the files are not too large, you can just concatenate the contents of the two files without parsing them. Use the StringBuffer class, append the contents of the first into the StringBuffer, then append the contents of the second. Here
